

When I survey the wondrous cross

ISAAC WATTS (1707)

When I survey the wondrous cross
on which the Prince of glory died, my richest gain I count but loss,
and pour contempt on all my pride.

Forbid it, Lord, that I should boast save in the death of Christ my God;
all the vain things that charm me most,
I sacrifice them to his blood.

See from his head, his hands, his feet,
sorrow and love flow mingled down;
did e'er such love and sorrow meet,
or thorns compose so rich a crown?

His dying crimson, like a robe,
spreads o'er his body on the tree;
then am I dead to all the globe,
and all the globe is dead to me.

Were the whole realm of nature mine,
that were a present far too small;
love so amazing, so divine,
demands my soul, my life, my all.
